

"In My Mind's Eye"

by Derrick Quintero (2015)

There is no justice without returning me to that which is outside the walls that confine me. Justice should always be the theme of our lives. The Phoenix rises on his lips; Her Eagle soars; <sup>Double</sup> Rainbows of hope; distant, pristine mountains all on an open - intersecting highway; Justice should always be the theme?

"Screaming For Justice" (2015)

Clay mold collaboration ~~with~~ <sup>of</sup> army connecting to a scale

Derrick Quintero +

Barbara

Justice denied ~~rips~~ at ones being - slowly the years grind by - it affects all with grey-haired fairness white, black, red and brown - female or male - it digs into the essence - always testing ones idealisms. Slowly the years grind by.

Justice should always be the theme?